I live next door to the property in question. I am against another mobilehome put on the property. The lot is used as a rental property with people moving in & out on a regular basis. Most of them are not the type of people you want living next door to you.

Coty Curry is the son of the real owner of the property & his father Bo Curry will turn it into another rental within a short amount of time. His son may live there a month & then it will become another rental for Bo.

The property on the back side of this property is also owned by Bo Curry & he has several different families living there & now he is trying to do the same to the property next to me.

One dwelling unit per gross acre until sewers are available should be upheld for this property please!

Bo Curry owns several properties in this area and all of them are rentals. Three lots that I know of. If he is not the owner then his parents are but he is the one who manages the people who are rented to.

He does not care who he rents to as long as they pay their rent. He hired a man holding a sign at Circle K will work for food. He let this man live in a travel trailer on the property in back of the lot next to me. Several children including a toddler on the front property ~~where~~^{were} around this "handyman."

Several months later he was arrested as a unregistered child sex offender from another state. This is an example of who he rents to so one home on the property is all I really want to deal with.
