GRANT AGREEMENT

This Grant Agreement ("Agreement") is dated as of July 01, 2024 ("Effective Date") between Resolve to Save Lives, Inc. ("RTSL") a not-for-profit organization focused on global health established under the laws of the State of Delaware with its business address at 85 Broad Street, Suite 1626, New York, New York, 10004 USA, and Pima County Health Department (the "Grantee"), whose address is 3950 S Country Club Blvd, Tucson, AZ, 85714 USA.

RTSL is making a grant to Grantee as part of the 7-1-7 Alliance. The 7-1-7 target aims to promote early and effective action to contain infectious disease outbreaks before they spread. The target is composed of three timeliness metrics: 7 days to detect a suspected disease outbreak; 1 day to inform relevant public health authorities and start an investigation; 7 days to complete required early response actions.

The 7-1-7 Alliance is a newly established initiative that will provide technical assistance, financial support, and a growing, global community of practice to help all countries achieve the 7-1-7 target for outbreak detection and control. Led by country representatives and supported by a Secretariat (the "Secretariat") hosted by RTSL, the 7-1-7 Alliance will bring together partners to accelerate adoption of the 7-1-7 target. The Technical Steering Group ("TSG") is comprised of nine members, with six seats designated for country representatives and three seats designated for technical partners and multilateral organizations and provides strategic direction to the 7-1-7 Alliance. The 7-1-7 Alliance aims to offer technical assistance, support, and guidance to implementing countries and develop a common learning agenda that draws on country experience in implementing the 7-1-7 approach.

A general description of the Project ("Project") is found in Annex A.

RTSL and Grantee agree as follows:

GRANT: RTSL agrees to make a grant to Grantee in the maximum amount of USD 74,963.90 ("Grant Funds") for the Project in accordance with and subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Any other expenditures that would require a modification to the Budget shall require the advance written authorization of RTSL. Grantee shall immediately notify RTSL of any cause which may render Grantee unable to perform its obligations under the Agreement.

General Description of Project

Laboratory data is a critical component to outbreak investigation and response. Knowing the etiology of an outbreak allows for linkage of cases, targeted public health interventions, and determining the size and scope of the outbreak over space and time. For 'acute' outbreaks where cases are easily epi-linked, the primary challenges are timely notifications from partners outside of public health and early sample collection for laboratory testing. Timeliness of detection, notification, and early response actions vary greatly for outbreaks identified by laboratory data versus heightened awareness of illness amongst public health partners. With a focus on outbreaks in K-12 settings, this project will evaluate the differences in response (defined by 7-1-7 metrics) when outbreaks are detected via laboratory versus notification by public health partners. We will achieve this goal through the following aims: (1) conduct a detailed analysis of historical outbreaks to identify internal and external bottlenecks and enablers and (2) use this data to refine key 7-1-7 tools for application internally and with critical external partners and (3) test an intervention to reduce identification time with public health partners. Through this project we aim to support PCHD and other health departments by sharing lessons learned and developed project tools in order to reduce identification time and increase laboratory sample submissions with subsequent etiology data.

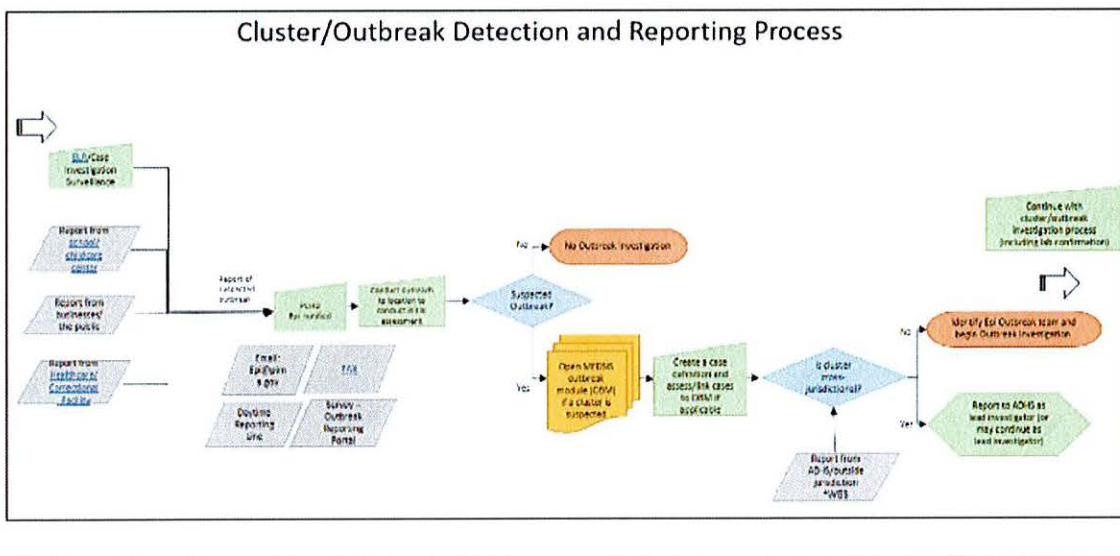

From 2019-2024, only 15% (n=2) of enteric outbreaks in Pima County schools were laboratory confirmed (Table 1). For outbreaks that initiate with confirmed laboratory tests, additional samples may also be needed following case finding to confirm or rule out suspect outbreaks. Local health jurisdictions such as Pima County Health Department (PCHD) are required by Arizona Administrative code to report suspect outbreaks to the state health department within the same day to facilitate and track early investigative public health actions. Outbreaks are identified in two ways:

- from individuals/establishments when case numbers are above the norm, and
- linkage of additional cases identified through routine surveillance investigations when the etiology has been identified and submitted as an Electronic Laboratory Report (ELR) or using genetic subtyping methods, which are critical in identifying multi-state outbreaks.

Figure 1 (below) is an overview of the different notification streams Pima has for outbreak detection. Outbreaks in K-12 school settings have two primary bottlenecks: 1) detection and confirmation due to delayed notification, and 2) receiving inadequate stool samples to conduct confirmatory testing. The aims of this project are designed to build upon our current evidence base and utilize this data for each subsequent step of the project.

Influence of laboratory data availability on the calculation of metrics, and timeliness of detection, notification, and early response actions in enteric outbreak response in Pima County objective:

SA1. Conduct a retrospective analysis of outbreak data associated with K-12 schools in Pima County, AZ. Key metric data will inform our impact assessment. We will quantify missing data and map the impact of these missing values to the calculation of 7-1-7 metrics. We will then systematically analyze the known and potential root causes of these missing data to inform SA2. We will also create a scoring system that analyzes each outbreak in the last 3 years based on adherence to 7-1-7 metrics and will allow for comparison of outbreaks.

SA2. Adapt the current 7-1-7 Early Action Review/Checklist (EARC) for use in K-12 schools. Using the data analytics from SA1, we will modify the current EARC to (1) address current bottlenecks identified and potentially deconstruct specific metrics to provide additional information within the tool to allow for improved data collection; (2) add school specific instructions based on key informant interviews with stakeholders that provide either data or data access to the health department during an outbreak. Making this tool more specific to the outbreak setting and the current environment in our schools will allow for greater consistency across outbreak investigations, more complete data collection and a timelier response overall.

SA3. Pilot a notification system Virtual Outbreak Monitoring Interactive Toolkit (VOMIT) for school officials to decrease time to notification and increase the health department's ability to take the necessary public health actions. From SA1/2 findings we will create an awareness campaign of (1) early warning signs in schools, (2) importance and methods of notification to PCHD and (3) necessary data to initiate mitigation efforts at the school. While PCHD currently has stool kits and standard protocols to request stool samples from parents of children in K-12 schools, the consent to receive a kit and timeliness of a sample being returned for analysis is low. We will develop enhanced kits and protocols and test the impact of their use through a return-on-investment model.

Activities

Project: Influence of laboratory data availability on the calculation of metrics, and timeliness of detection, notification, and early response actions in enteric outbreak response in Pima County

Site of work: Tucson, USA

Activity Dates: July 01, 2024 until June 30th, 2025

Project Overview:

The project scope will be outbreaks detected in Pima County, Arizona, USA Kindergarten-12th grade schools affecting students, staff and school administrators.

I. Key Activities and Timeline

SA1. Conduct a retrospective analysis of outbreak data associated with K-12 schools in Pima County, AZ. K-12 school data (2019-2023) for the retrospective analysis would come from Arizona's Medical Electronic Data Surveillance Intelligence System (MEDSIS). MEDSIS is an electronic reporting and case management system for providers to notify local and state health departments of a reportable disease or outbreak. PCHD is a user of MEDSIS and data for Pima county residents is owned and managed by PCHD.

We will define 7-1-7 metrics for detection of the outbreak, notification to the health department, and early response were identified for each outbreak using pre-existing MEDSIS data fields and locally tailored definitions. Detection is defined as length in days between the date the first case became ill to the date the outbreak was reported to PCHD. Notification is defined as the length in days between the date the first sample was collected to the date the outbreak was reported to PCHD. Early response is defined as length in days between the date the outbreak was reported to the date of the first environmental inspection.

SA2. Adapt the current 7-1-7 Early Action Review/Checklist (EARC) for use in K-12 schools. (Months Bottlenecks and enablers will be identified based on detailed analysis of each response to evaluate the broader health systems factors related to further neglect of diseases where laboratory data is not initially available. With this annotated early action review checklist, we will provide schools with the information we need from them to report quickly, so that we may implement outbreak mitigation efforts.

Tool 1: Annotated Early Action Review/Checklist

SA3/Future Studies. Pilot a notification system (VOMIT) to decrease time to notification and increase the health department's ability to take the necessary public health actions. In order to adapt the early action review checklist for K-12 schools, we will implement a communication plan with our school liaison team to inform our school health partners on the contents of the checklist and training on the reporting tool, including important reporting timelines. We will develop printed materials to engage and increase awareness in school administrative settings. We will work with our communications team to develop social media outreach for participation in the pilot VOMIT system. The overall intention is to create awareness for school health partners on when and how to report suspected GI outbreaks quickly and efficiently, so the epidemiology team can disseminate kits for sample collection and coordinate lab testing.

Analysis plan

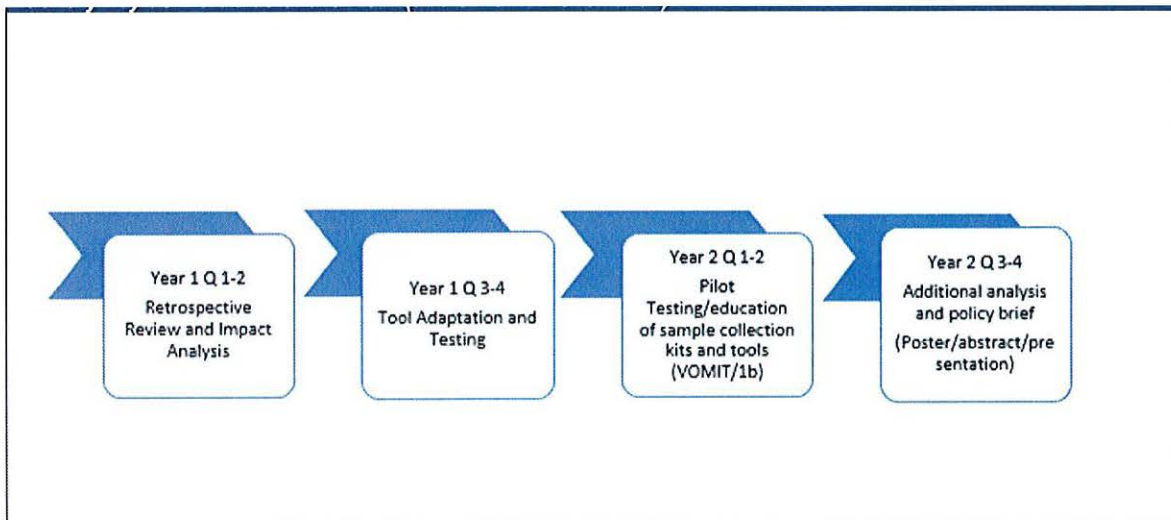

SA1. The completeness of data will be analyzed to assess gaps in our data entry process. Percentage of missing data for each data field used in the 7-1-7 metric definitions will be calculated to highlight areas to improve data collection during enteric outbreaks in schools. Where school outbreak data is robust, we will calculate length in days of detection, notification, and early response for comparison to the 7-1-7 set metrics. These results can then be compared to outbreaks with missing data to determine the impact of missingness on 7-1-7 metric calculations and noted bottlenecks.

SA2. While this aim is primarily the adaptation of an existing tool, if a K-12 outbreak occurs during the study period, we will implement the adapted tool to calculate new or altered metrics. Bottlenecks and adapters will be recorded and compared with historical 7-1-7 outbreak evaluations.

SA3. This aim will collect data on the number of participating schools, trainings conducted on VOMIT and new metric measurements.

II. Deliverables and Timeline

III. Evaluation Approach and Outcome Indicators

SA1. Due to known complications of collecting stool samples for enteric outbreak investigations in schools, we expect a bottleneck to be notification times of outbreaks, as our notification definition depends on the date the first sample was collected. The impact these missing fields have on our estimated 7-1-7 metrics will guide our adoption of 7-1-7 Early Action Review/Checklist (EARC) as we will emphasize the need for better data collection for identified data fields with high percentage of missingness.

SA2. Updated, locally adapted tool will facilitate more specific detection/notification threshold for K-12 settings which may lead to updated PCHD epidemiology policies communicable disease reporting.

SA3. Improve lab confirmation of UGI outbreaks through the incorporation of VOMIT

IV. Risks and Mitigation

Risk/Assumption	Mitigation Strategy
Not enough sample size for determining outbreak data missingness in a 5 year period	Expand the retrospective review to a longer period of time
Unable to complete key informant interviews with stakeholders	Adjust interview methodology from survey to phone call or in person visit
Schools don't use VOMIT system	Early involvement of schools ensuring a system they will use and education campaign to support questions that might arise

V. Organizational capacity/related work

PCHD: The PCHD epidemiology division will lead this project. Our team consists of a staff of 30 including outbreak and surveillance epidemiologists as well as team of enteric and community epidemiology and experienced communicable disease investigators with 20+ combined years of experience. Our division manager has over 20+ years of public health experience and a background in research.

SAFER: The University of Arizona will partner with PCHD on this project in two ways. First, their faculty will act as subject matter experts related to study design, data analysis, outbreak metrics, survey design, and enteric diseases throughout the study. For the SA3/Future Studies, their team will consult in their current stool collection protocols and kit design. Second, the SAFER students will actively participate in outbreak investigations acting as surge capacity for case investigations, enabling PCHD Epidemiologists to focus on collection of metric data, communication with stakeholders and conducting real-time analytics to determine the scope, impact and cause of the outbreak.

We will be collecting and owning the data as part of our usual public health surveillance activities and is not deemed to be research as defined in 45 CFR46.102.
