Torture of livestock is prohibited by the current Pima Co. Code 6.04.110A1a&b&2c

Would you like to keep this law?

If so, vote against the proposed new law. See 6.02.020A; 6.08.040A2a&b.

The State is notoriously useless for helping horses and other livestock, and has numerous laws that work against these animals.

Current Pima Co. Code has many spay/neuter mandates for dogs and cats. Would you like to keep these laws? If so, vote against the proposed new law. It omits several current spay/neuter mandates.

Re the current "Suitable Home" law:
By this law, the Board of Supervisors authorized and ordered the county enforcement agent to refuse someone who tries to adopt if, for example, that person is on PACC's "do not adopt" list.

Extremely important: This current law is based on the fact that Pima County has the legal right to refuse. You would be giving up this right, or not using it, if the proposed new law passes.

Under the proposed new law, anyone at all, even an ex murderer, could demand and get an animal, because that law eliminates — repeals — the authority and the order that was given to the county enforcement agent by the Supervisors in the current law.

It is outrageous to argue that Pima Co. must by law give out its animals to anyone who asks, as has been falsely argued by those pushing the proposed new law.
