I saw Matt Heinz on television talking about this program of home sharing that is associated with Pima Council on Aging. It allows seniors to stay in their homes longer. I understand that the county is voting to allocate funding to this program and I fully support it. Allowing seniors to help each other out by living together in appropriate matches of needs and personalities will lessen the burden on the city, county and state for their care.

I also trust Pima Council on aging to oversee such a program. I have benefited from their services and so have many people that I know.

AARP thanks the Pima County Board of Supervisors for hearing the Home Sharing Pilot and is supportive of the initiative, which helps older Arizonans tackle both the issues of affordable housing and social isolation. Home Sharing is a great option for older adults that want to share cost of living expenses and companionship. Home sharing should become part of the model for integrating affordable long-term housing options across Arizona in a relatively short time.

To the Pima county Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you to encourage your support for the $200,000 in funding the Pima Council on Aging pilot home sharing program.

I am a Geriatric/Family physician who has practiced my entire career in Pima County.

As my mother once said to me, "You have to spend money to make money". The corollary of that in this situation, is that sometimes you need to spend money to save money.

This is what I mean. I have seen on too many occasions, my geriatric patients being discharged from the hospital with no one at home to assist in their care. Simple things such as help with transfers from laying to sitting, or helping them with their pills can turn into very dangerous and expensive problems. The result is that they fall, or take their meds incorrectly and end back up in the hospital. Many of these patients are "county" patients, and this responsibility falls then to the county coffers, and the bills for their subsequent hospitalization will dwarf the care of this program.

My mother was fortunate (she recently passed away, but she had the means to live in a facility where she had help), but many of our elderly citizens aren't so lucky. This program is a step forward to both humane care for our community, and sound fiscal planning.

I urge you to do as I personally have done, and support the Pima Council on Aging

Thank you,

Respectfully,

Herbert Jalowsky M.D. M.B.A.

Attention: Board of Supervisors: Care of the Clerk of the Board

Please take action now to bring Home Sharing to Pima County.

Home Sharing is an inexpensive and valuable option to allow single seniors to remain independent in their home. As someone who lives part time in a co-housing I have witnessed how sharing provides benefits to all parties. The companionship and security from such an arrangement are beneficial to all participants and to the community as a whole. In the Netherlands these arrangements are common. This is a more natural and healthy way to live out senior years than in large congregate settings, especially with seniors without close family members. Many seniors want to downsize, lead a simpler life, and cherish companionship above other considerations. This is a great solution and could become a model for other cities.

I have rarely seen as much interest in a project as I have for the Tucson Pilot Program on Home Sharing. It's an idea whose time has come. when the lack of affordable housing is emerging at the same time demand for housing is increasing, in part due to covid-related increases in foreclosures and eviction notices. This program places people who are seeking housing with those who have the skills a homeowner may need to continue living at home --things like transportation to a doctor's office or yard work, or help cooking dinner. Thanks for your support for this timely solution to a complicated problem.

I understand that the Board will review the request to fund this program. Tucson is a perfect place to further the options of shared housing. We have an abundance of senior citizens living alone. Some in financial comfort and others unable to sustain their lifestyle.

To help bridge this situation two ladies active on the local scene, founding board members of Tucson Home Sharing, were featured in a video produced by the Pew Foundation and shared nationally. This video depicts a lifestyle created by Sharon Kha and Deborah Knox who now spend much of their time explaining how to overcome the obstacles to sharing space. It is a must see for the board and a wonderful tool to help others be more accepting of a new but beneficial lifestyle. Please vote to fund the "Home Share Pilot". These two ladies and other well informed volunteers are poised to move the project forward.

In the past several weeks, I have been talking to people about the idea of Shared Housing, and it is clearly an idea whose time has come. Matching people who need housing with people who have a house but need help managing the upkeep or mortgage is a simple solution to a complicated problem; and helping people age in place is better for their emotional and physical health.

Thank you for your support for establishing a Home Sharing Program in Tucson.

I am writing in support of funding for the home share pilot program in Tucson, Arizona.

It would be wonderful for older people to have more choices about how they spend their later years. Right now it is kind of "stay in your home" or "go to the home." We need more choices to honor the diversity of our older population so that they can have a continuation of the interesting lives they have already created.

As a widow wondering about my own future I would be interested in following the development of this program. I am a homeowner in Tucson.

Dear Board of Supervisors,

Having researched more than 50 active home sharing organisations in communities in 17 other states as part of the grassroots volunteer Tucson Home Sharing group, I have found ample evidence for Home

Sharing to be included as an affordable option in housing for seniors who wish to age in place. The added companionship, economics and security in having someone share their home has allowed so many seniors in those states to continue as a productive part of the community, reducing the need for emergency intervention costs that would frequently end as a county expense.

With a recent very positive Feasibility study completed and Pima Council On Aging agreeing to administer the program, there is every reason to provide funds for this much needed Pilot program,

It is critically important to take immediate action to support Home Care in Pima county at this time.

Among other services of sharing a home I am particularly concerned with promoting mutual support with whole person health and well-being. In addition, home sharing may provide caregiving and household assistance.

Home sharing is an inexpensive and valuable option in allowing single seniors to remain independent in their home by sharing it with another senior. Sharing their home with another senior could help to provide such services as driving, cooking and the benefit of affordable rent. Companionship and security with such a helpful arrangement are beneficial to both participants and the community as a whole.

Sharing a Home - Sharing a Lifestyle

There is a huge need for affordable housing in Tucson. This need is particularly important among older adults, and home sharing constitutes an important step toward its solution.

Home sharing has many mutual benefits for the home owner and the home seeker. To name only a few: lowered expenses, safety, companionship, peace of mind (also for family and friends), and being able to stay home instead of going to a nursing home.

Sustainable Home Sharing Pilot Programs exist in seventeen other states, one for 14 years. Many people in Tucson would greatly benefit when such a program is also available. Please support this needed effort.

To the Pima County Board of Supervisors,

I'm writing this email in support of the Home Share Pilot Program.

As a social worker and psychotherapist for many years, I've seen, over and over, the difference for people who have even one person they're regularly around and those who live alone without regular human contact. If someone has a physical difficulty that makes it harder for them to get out, the feelings of isolation, and potential depression, are often decreased by having even one someone, regularly in their life.

Home Sharing is an affordable option that has the potential to solve physical, emotional and financial challenges. Having a structure to help people find these opportunities and help them choose a good home sharing match that most fits their situation and personality, is very helpful. I believe that many people could benefit from well matched home sharing situations., but would find the effort to create them by themselves to be too much. Having a program that spreads the word about these options, gives people a structure to explore and set up the home sharing situations, can help facilitate successful matching and positive outcomes.

It's also an excellent way to help older people stay "home" rather than having to go to congregate living facilities. We have learned well, in this last year, how the ability to stay "home" can mean life or death for an older person.

I whole heartedly support the Home Sharing idea, in general, and this particular Home Sharing Pilot.

Thank you for your attention to this important issue.

All Good Wishes,

Sal Risinger MSW

Hi,

I am writing to urge you to support the Home Share Pilot Program. This innovative program is exceedingly interesting to and useful for those in my age category (I am age 69).

I currently am in a similar situation, living with a friend for financial and practical purposes. We didn't know each other well when we made this decision, and it would have been very helpful to have a program like this to guide us through the process!

Fortunately, my housemate Becky and I have continued to inhabit this house for almost 3 years. We each had small dogs and needed a house with suitable space and a yard, and neither of us could afford all the expenses on our own.

The Home Share program will provide seniors, like myself, with not only the financial benefits of sharing costs, yet equally important, the benefits of companionship, having someone knowing whether you've fallen during the night and need help, and being able to share the ups and downs of aging with someone who gets it.

I have found this arrangement to be much better than I could have imagined. I thought that 2 older women with their customs and habits might find it difficult to enter into this situation with ease and grace. It has been a joy, and it has eased any burden or concerns my family may have been feeling about me living alone at this age.

Please see the value in supporting this program, and if you have any questions for me, please feel free to call.

I am fully in favor of getting this program started in Pima County and ask that every supervisor support it by voting "Yes". There are many reasons for this program - an affordable housing choice for Tucsonans; offering a sustainable opportunity for elders to age in place instead of shipping them off to a "home"; promotes mutual support, whole-person health and well-being in our community. Also, statistics show that we are facing a caregiving shortage in coming years. Home Sharing is another solution for our community.

Here is the address as well as a few points you may want to consider. Emails do not need to be lengthy; they just need to be in support of this program and be counted!

Please send an email in support of establishing a Home Share Pilot Program in Tucson to the Board of Supervisors, Care of the Clerk of the Board, at COB_mail@pima.gov, and include "Home Share Pilot" in the subject line.

Emails should be submitted between now and this coming Friday, June 18, 2021

Pick a point or two or create your own reason for supporting this venture:

- Home Sharing is a badly needed affordable housing option for older adults in Tucson

- Home Sharing addresses the issue of loneliness in a natural, supportive manner;

- Home Sharing addresses the needs of both home owners and home seekers

- Home sharing offers sustainable opportunities for elders to age in place

A sustainable Home Sharing relationship is built on a selective process

Home sharing promotes mutual support plus whole-person health and well-being

Home sharing may or may not provide caregiving and household assistance

On behalf of the entire Board of Directors for Tucson Home Sharing, please know how much we appreciate your willingness to support this exciting new pilot program in Tucson.
